Chamber Opera Connects Ulysses with Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder

Posted on: Jan 8 2015 by Maggie Martin in Segment E, Segments with 0 Comments

On Saturday, the Houston-based contemporary music ensemble Musiqa will present a chamber opera called Ulysses, Home. It combines the mythological story of Ulysses with modern stories of soldiers with post-traumatic stress returning to domestic life. In conjunction with the upcoming performance, Musiqa recently hosted a panel discussion about PTSD.

Artistic Director Anthony Brandt composed the work (with a libretto by Neena Beber). We'll talk with Brandt about the work, and what he hopes to accomplish with it, in particular for area veterans.
